I read two articles in the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER today about Duke Energy. I read sentences like "state slow to impose runoff controls", "state regulators let Duke Energy skate for years without permits", "Duke's relationship with state appears disturbingly cozy", "DENR employees met with inaction from their own supervisors".

Could some of these possibly be true and pertain to UI/TCWS?

As residents, we obtain permits for almost everything here in Tega Cay. But, these utilities skate? Our work must meet building and electrical codes. But, these utilities dump sewage and coal ash into our lake?

The primary responsibility of elected and appointed City and State leaders is to protect the safety and fiscal well-being of its citizens. The residents of Tega Cay, and other citizens of S.C., deserve adequate oversight, prompt attention, and speedy correction of offenses by Utility companies.
